MENNONITE YEARBOOK

1536 Menno Simons 1986

Brief Statement of Mennonite Doctrine

This is a summary statement based on the confession of faith adopted by Mennonite General Conference in 1963. For a fuller statement see the Mennonite Confession of Faith. (Herald Press, paper, $.75)

1. We believe in one God eternally existing as Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

2. We believe that God has revealed himself in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, the inspired Word of God, and supremely in his Son, the Lord Jesus Christ.

3. We believe that in the beginning God created all things by His Son. He made man in the divine image, with free will, moral character, and a spiritual nature.

4. We believe that man fell into sin, bringing depravity and death upon the race; that as sinner, man is self-centered and self-willed, unwilling and unable to break with sin.

5. We believe that there is one Mediator between God and men, the Man Christ Jesus, who died to redeem us from sin and arose for our justification.

6. We believe that salvation is by grace through faith in Christ, a free gift bestowed by God on those who repent and believe.

7. We believe that the Holy Spirit convicts of sin, effects the new birth, gives guidance in life, empowers for service, and enables perseverance in faith and holiness.

8. We believe that the church is the body of Christ, the brotherhood of the redeemed, a disciplined people obedient to the Word of God, and a fellowship of love, intercession, and healing.

9. We believe that Christ commissioned the church to go into all the world, making disciples of all the nations, and ministering to every human need.

10. We believe it is the will of God that there should be ministers to teach the Word, to serve as leaders, to administer the ordinances, to lead the church in the exercise of discipline, and to serve as pastors and teachers.

11. We believe that those who repent and believe should be baptized with water as a symbol of baptism with the Spirit, cleansing from sin, and commitment to Christ.

12. We believe that the church should observe the communion of the Lord's Supper as a symbol of his broken body and shed blood, and of the fellowship of his church, until his return.

13. We believe in the washing of the saints' feet as a symbol of brotherhood, cleansing, and service, and in giving the right hand of fellowship and the holy kiss as symbols of Christian love.

14. We believe that God has established unique roles for man and woman, symbolized by man's bared head in praying and prophesying, and by womans' veiled head.

15. We believe that Christian marriage is intended by God to be the union of one man and one woman for life, and that Christians shall marry only in the Lord.

16. We believe that Christians are not to be conformed to the world, but should seek to conform to Christ in every area of life.

17. We believe that Christians are to be open and transparent in life, ever speaking the truth, and employing no oaths.

18. We believe that it is the will of God for Christians to refrain from force and violence in human relations and to show Christian love to all men.

19. We believe that the state is ordained of God to maintain order in society, and that Christians should honor rulers, be subject to authorities, witness to the state, and pray for governments.

20. We believe that at death the unsaved enter into everlasting punishment and the saved into conscious bliss with Christ, who is coming again, and will raise the dead, sit in judgment, and bring in God's everlasting kingdom.

Foreword

We are pleased to present to you the 1986-87 Mennonite Yearbook, the organizational and statistical record of the Mennonite Church (MC) in North America. This volume reflects the life of the church as it is found in its congregational, area, district, conference, state/provincial, continental, and worldwide expressions.

In 1986 we celebrate two significant historical events in the life of the church. On January 30, 1536, four hundred and fifty years ago Menno Simons left the priesthood of the Catholic Church to cast his life with the emerging Anabaptists. Under his leadership the believers were unified and a solid base was laid for their future. Leonard Gross charts the course for us in the article "Menno Simons' Legacy." The second event is the migration of Mennonites to Canada. Two hundred years ago, in 1786, Mennonites moved north from the United States shortly after the close of the war with England. Land, the assurance of exemption from military service, and loyalty to the British crown were forces at work to encourage families to leave their communities in the Eastern part of the United States. Lorna Bergey surveys these migrations and early church developments for us. Finally, Wayne North, executive secretary of the Mennonite Church General Board, penned for us the article "Mennonite Church, 1986," in which he describes the formative role of churchwide meetings and structures in creating our North American Mennonite Church body.

The basic features of the Yearbook continue. However, as with each issue, we seek to reflect the life of the church in a way that is helpful to all our readers. As you page through this volume you will note several changes which we think make this a more useful resource for your participation and ministry in the life of the church. Changes include the following:

First: The conference listing of congregations has been changed slightly in that the Beachy Amish Church and the Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church bodies are now included in a separate section, "Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies." This new section is found immediately prior to the "Mennonite Church Statistics." Otherwise, the two sections, "Conference, District, and Area Directory of Congregations" and "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences," continue as in 1985. One area body, "The New England Fellowship of Mennonite Churches," has been added to the growing number of area organizations emerging among us.

Second: The "Directory of Overseas Mennonite Churches" has been expanded to include the overseas Mennonite programs which had been listed as a separate entry in the Mennonite Board of Missions section. As a result of this change all overseas activity is now described in one section. This new section titled "Directory of Overseas Mennonite Churches and Programs" is found immediately prior to the "World Directory."

Third: The churchwide board listings are briefer, due to the transfer of all board-related detailed entries such as historical libraries, schools, and so on, into one new section titled "Directory of Detailed Listings." The entries are listed alphabetically by name. All detailed listings are now found in one section rather than scattered throughout the volume. It continues a trend begun a few issues ago when the inter-Mennonite listings were brought together in this manner. This change should also clarify questions about institutional sponsorship since not all of the specific institutions listed were sponsored by the churchwide board under which it was listed. We hope that the resulting compact listing of the boards will make it easier to use.

Fourth: The section "Mennonite and Brethren in Christ World Directory" has been streamlined, since no new data was collected by the World Conference office in 1985. It anticipates the detailed directory to be published by the World Conference in the near future.

Fifth: The significant change is reflected in the fact that this volume is titled Mennonite Yearbook, 1986-87. This signals that the Yearbook is moving to a biennial schedule. Plans are to release a new volume every other year in the year following the Mennonite Church General Assembly biennial meeting. The rise in the number of conference yearbooks, decline in sales, increased editorial and production costs, and the growing annual loss has influenced this decision. In 1960 one Mennonite Church member in 11 purchased the Yearbook. By 1985, that ratio had increased to one in 25 members. During that same period the size of the Yearbook increased from 152 pages to 240.

In a survey of all the institutions and boards carried in the Yearbook we discovered that while the annual edition is desirable, there was considerable support for a biennial release. It was noted that a number of people purchase a new Yearbook only every other year. Our survey

Explanation of abbreviations and codes

In the different directories of this volume, there are abbreviations and codes for frequently used information in order to reduce space. Abbreviations and codes refer to other Mennonite bodies, Mennonite Church conferences, congregations, conference bishop or area districts, ministerial offices, and functions.

Detailed explanations of these abbreviations and codes are supplied at the beginning of each directory. Please consult the Geographical Directory of Congregations; Conference, District, and Area Directory of Congregations; Directory of Mennonite and Inter-Mennonite Projects; and Mennonite Church Ministerial Directory for a full description of each one.

The Mennonite Church 1986

By Wayne North

From 1897 to 1969 the General Conference biennial sessions played a significant role in the life of the Mennonite Church. In 1971 a total reorganization created a General Assembly which meets biennially and continues to have an important function in our fellowship.

Mennonite General Conference

In 1896 Daniel Kauffman of Versailles, Missouri, advocated forming a General Conference in the Herald of Truth. Unity was a major concern. He wrote: "We need a General Conference, where our brethren from Pennsylvania, from Virginia, from Canada, from Ohio, from Kansas, and from all other places where our faith is known and practiced may come together, learn more of one another's needs, trials and possibilities, come in closer sympathy with one another, confer with one another, and pray with and for one another, in the effort to find the best way to propagate the growth of true religion." (Proceedings, Vol. 1, p. 24.)

Some argued that coming together would only increase differences and hasten divisions. However, using the example of the Jerusalem Conference, advocates for a General Conference carried the day. While not all district conferences joined, the resulting organization did provide a forum for consultation and admonition.

Handling Concerns and Issues

There was genuine concern for unity in the church but a major emphasis was upon uniformity. While missions was also mentioned, the weight seemed to come down on the purity of the church. Programs reflected the controversies of the day or at least the answers to current questions.

Early minutes of churchwide conferences reflect a primary concern to address particular matters through messages by prominent leaders. Later, as boards, commissions, and committees became more active, their reports expanded and there was no longer room for sermons. The focus shifted from issues being handled by an individual to study by committee. Issues were assigned to groups such as the Young People's Problems Committee, Peace Problems Committee, or General Problems Committee.

Later a more positive approach was reflected by the Commission for Christian Education and Young People's Work. Other committees were formed to work with specific issues such as the Committee on Industrial Relations or the Christian Stewardship Study Committee.

During World War II special committees worked at the massive Civilian Public Service Programs through the CPS Policy Committee and CPS Investigating Committee, as well as the Peace Problems Committee. As issues were raised, special committees were appointed to study them and prepare statements for consideration by General Conference delegates. Some of these became official statements of the denomination.

Some of the issues raised were potentially explosive. The ethics of life insurance was one of these. The study process, reporting to the delegates, their response, and then ownership by that body was the way to a common mind. It presumed that there was a basic unity in faith on which the exploration of a single issue could be pursued. It also assumed that those engaged in the study were trustworthy. The results were positive for the entire denomination.

Feelings were not always unanimous concerning the final document adopted by the delegate body. But there was opportunity for each viewpoint to be expressed. None of the studies undertaken ever resulted in the withdrawal of a group. Splinter groups usually formed at the district conference level. They withdrew from a district conference to form a new conference or a congregation withdraw from its conference home.

Mennonite Church General Assembly

In 1971 a completely new churchwide organization was put in place. A General Assembly and General Board replaced the General Conference and General Council. Provisions were made to allow conferences to form regions. These gave conferences the opportunity to work and fellowship together on an intermediate level. The General Assembly continued to work at issues through special committees as did the General Conference with much the same results. In spite of a new organization and some knotty issues, the unity of the Mennonite Church continued strong.

However, during the seventies groups of congregations withdrew from their original conference to form new independent conferences. The issues were not always the same, but often their withdrawal was an effort to maintain more traditional pattern of dress, church government, and worship. There are presently eleven such conferences with a total of 165 congregations in Canada and the United States. There are another 94 unaffiliated congregations not identified with any conference (see Table IV). It is clear that churchwide consultations or conferences have not prevented rifts and splits. On the other hand, there is the possibility that few of the leaders who eventually led congregations out of their conferences were relating to churchwide organization and thus were not participants in the discernment process.

Influence of Churchwide Gatherings

Unity was not the only value of the churchwide organization. The involvement of a wider spectrum of views and convictions modified the life of the whole. As the studies proceeded with the extremes of the case being shared the conclusions were modified so that the finished statement had wider usefulness and impact.

The influence of these churchwide gatherings is difficult to discern. In the early days when travel was less common certainly the pleasure of simply being together must have been evident. Fellowship has continued to be a highly valued part of coming together. As the meeting has been broadened to include more than delegate items, the focus has shifted from strictly church business to activities that involve and relate to everyone.

The broad inclusion which reaches from young children, through youth, young adults, and to the elders resembles the breadth of a congregation. All are able to experience the inclusion in a wider Mennonite family. It is an occasion for learning and claiming identity.

The institutions of the denomination find this a time to tell their story to an audience that is receptive. By displays, informal contacts, and formal reporting, they describe their mission and the efforts they make to carry it out. It provides a unique opportunity for the people to come close to institutions which are often distant.

The experiment with Mennonite General Conference, which began as a preliminary session in 1897 at Elida, Ohio, has flourished. That session was attended by 70 bishops and deacons. Over 2,000 persons attended the Convention and General Assembly in 1985 at Ames, Iowa. Numbers do not tell the story, but it is clear that these churchwide meetings play a significant role in Mennonite Church life.

Menno Simons
1536 ~ 1986

Menno Simons' Legacy

By Leonard Gross

A denomination is named after him, this Menno Simons of old. Exactly 450 years ago, this year, this priest stepped out of one denomination, and into another.

For the 25 years remaining in his life, Menno Simons helped shape the fledgling movement composed of Godvruchtige—men and women who feared God, soon to be called Anabaptists, and later, Mennonites.

The year was 1536 and the month January, when Menno Simons broke with the traditional church. He was probably baptized shortly thereafter. He was soon asked to become a leader within the new still scattered Low Country movement which seemingly overnight was found to stretch a thousand miles, from the Rhineland, through the Netherlands, all the way to what is today Russia.

The year 1536 was a crucial point within Mennonite history. The fighting Anabaptists of Münster had just been defeated, many were to lose their lives in the chaotic aftermath. To be sure, not all Anabaptists had joined the revolutionary crusaders of Münster who had boldly proclaimed the old walled city of Münster in Westfalia as the New Jerusalem. With pomp and heraldry the call went out to Anabaptists everywhere, to come and join the action at Münster: the world was coming to an end; God was breaking into history, and would lead it to its culmination, beginning in the New Jerusalem, Münster. People everywhere flowed to that walled city, seemingly by the thousands.

Already in 1533, Menno—most likely not yet formally an Anabaptist—may well have written his "Spiritual Resurrection" to counter the foment and chaos that was in the making. His message: a call to all people to accept only those doctrines in accord with those of Jesus Christ and his apostles, and that "all doctrines which do not agree with the doctrine of Jesus Christ and his apostles, let them appear ever so holy, are accursed."

Menno Simons' Leadership

Much has been written on how Menno, with great patience, yet also with resolute decisiveness, carefully helped shape a new movement that had come apart at the seams, explosively, and so was without structure and substance. The New Jerusalem had turned into a tragic fiasco, with thousands dying in the bloody aftermath of a vengeful siege. Menno took heart at this low point of despair, and more than any other person was instrumental in nursing the movement back to health and vigor.

By 1535 Menno began to write against the "Blasphemy of Jan van Leiden," who had proclaimed himself king of the New Jerusalem at Münster. Menno reiterates time and again in his polemic that only Christ can assume this role, who is the true Melchizedek, king of Salem, "the king of peace, who has made peace between God the Father and the human race" (p. 36).* Menno continues, that Christ is the sole Shepherd, and that he "did not want to be defeated with Peter's sword" (p. 45). Menno climaxes his strong polemic, urging his readers—"all true brethren of the covenant scattered abroad"—not to forsake the Word of God, and to "guard against all strange doctrines of swords and resistance." He reminds his readers: "You have seen your master Christ, with the eye of faith, and you have heard his voice, saying, This is the true way, walk upon it" (p. 49).

Menno Simons took his task of proclaiming truth very seriously. In a lengthy communiqué to the scholarly world, entitled "Christian Baptism," he begins his missive: "Read and reread the words which I speak, O ye learned ones who seem to excel others in wisdom and learning" (p. 229).

In his magnum opus, "Foundation of Christian Doctrine," Menno emanates both the style and spirit of an apostle Paul: "To all magistrates and men of whatever condition, class, or rank they may be, Menno Simons wishes the illumination of the Spirit, and the pure knowledge of the kingdom of God, from our heavenly Father, and his Son Jesus Christ, our Lord, who has loved us and washed us from our sins with his blood. To him be praise, honor, glory, and thanksgiving forever, Amen" (p. 105).

In an earlier general epistle, "The New Birth," Menno asks his readers: "Attend to my words, all people, and understand, all ye who think yourselves to be Christians . . ." (p. 89).

Why did Menno dare to take on this authority? It is not in keeping with the congregational-synodal approaches of Swiss Anabaptism, or of the Hutterites in Moravia, the latter's penchant for strong leadership notwithstanding. Gemeindetheologie (truth emerging out of group process) lies at the very foundation of Swiss and Hutterian Anabaptism; its ongoing tradition is carried by the Mennonites and Hutterites in Canada and the United States.

In a very real sense, however, Menno's approach to leadership was what the remnants of Anabaptists in the aftermath of the Münster tragedy were calling for. A strong hand was indicated in the year 1536 to help restore order and balance among the misguided brothers and sisters now scattered far and wide throughout the present-day Netherlands, Belgium, Germany, and Poland. Michael Sattler had served in this way for the Swiss Brethren, and Jakob Hutter, for the Hutterites. Later, Jakob Ammann would step in for the Amish. To be sure, each exercised a somewhat different approach to authority in their gifts as leaders. Hutter reorganized the Hutterites structurally, yet he accepted the faith and its expressions already in place, based upon the Schleitheim experience. Ammann pushed for change in doctrinal areas, and a return to pre-pietistic thought patterns; he also introduced elements of Menno Simons and Dirk Philips into the Upper German Swiss Brethren scene. Shunning and foot washing are two examples of this. Michael Sattler's approach was to bring a proposal, which included most of what would become the Seven Articles of Schleitheim; yet it was the gathered group which rethought and reworked the proposal, until all basic disagreements on these seven points had been resolved. Other points may well have fallen by the wayside—those points of disagreement which could not be resolved. We do not know for sure. In any case, Menno spoke out through oral and written word, with the message to remain true to the ways of Jesus Christ and his apostles.

In his early writings, Menno viewed his audience as being scattered and loosely organized. He seemed to see God-fearing disciples "somewhere out there, wherever they may be." By the 1540s and 1550s, Menno's image of the group shifts to a more conscious awareness of gathered disciples, meeting together formally in areas known to him. Yet even here, congregational Gemeindetheologie seems overshadowed by the bishop's authority from above. Dirk Philips and Leenaert Bouwens—but also Menno himself—seemed to demand almost absolute control from above as the manner of dealing with individual and congregational problems. The bishop could and did, on his own, excommunicate and proclaim avoidance, restore and reconcile. First Corinthians 5 was hence a central passage for the Low Country Anabaptists at that time, more so than Matthew 18, which lay at the center of the Swiss Brethren approach to discipline.

Here were indeed differences, which, when cross-fertilized, would bring dissension among the heretofore congregationally oriented Swiss Brethren, which in turn led to the Amish division of the 1690s.

Different Mennonite groups within North America have likewise been affected. The current debate on leadership styles and approaches to faith and discipline (Conversations on Faith I and II) is fashioned to a considerable degree by whether one sides with Menno and Dirk, or with the Schleitheim tradition.

North American Mennonites seem to take Menno Simons more seriously than do their European counterparts. The Dutch Mennonites have long since rejected Menno's authoritarian thread of their sixteenth-century tradition. It may have been a temporary necessity, some would say, with an earlier Spiritualistic foundation (Obbe Philips' influence) being the primary motif that would again emerge victorious after the passing of the era of the bishops within the Dutch tradition.

Menno Simons' Message.

At the center of Menno's message lay, not an ethical system, not a systematic theology, not even the Bible, per se. Rather, it was something which he considered much more vital and essential. Menno went to great pains to declare that his doctrine was no new theology, rather part and parcel of the whole of what Jesus and his apostles had taught and lived, effecting indeed a new order and a new people.

Three examples of Menno's thought also suggest something of Menno's approach to writing, and what might be found throughout the long, long volume that few persons have ever read from cover to cover, namely, The Complete Writings of Menno Simons:

> Menno's Clue to Correct Interpretation of Scripture:
> Does not the whole Scripture direct us to Christ? Are we not baptized in His name that we should hear His voice, and be obedient to His Word? (p. 127)

> The Center of Menno's Message:
> My writing and preaching is nothing else than Jesus Christ. I seek and desire nothing (this the Omniscient One knows) but that the most glorious name, the divine will, and the glory of our beloved Jesus Christ may be acknowledged throughout the world. (p. 311)

> Menno, the Traditionalist:
> Ours is no new doctrine, as the preachers without truth assert and would have you believe. It is the old doctrine which was preached and practiced in the church for more than 1,500 years, the doctrine by which the church was begotten, is being begotten, and will be begotten to the end. (p. 192)

Menno Simons as Churchman

Above all, Menno Simons was a churchman, par excellence, with unrelenting vigor. He early discovered a deep faith for himself, and believed that it was available for all others as well, those who desired to overcome, and find victory. In one of his earliest writings as an Anabaptist, Menno breaks through to an overriding confidence and hope with the following poignant words:

> Who, dear Lord, ever came to Thee with a pious heart and was rejected? Who ever sought thee and found Thee not? Who ever sought help with Thee and did not obtain it? Who ever prayed for Thy grace and did not receive it? Who ever called upon Thee without being heard? (p. 69)

Menno Simons called upon the Most High and was heard. He gave of himself indefatigably the remainder of his life to the work of the kingdom of God, within the context of Northern Europe.

Exactly how new were these new Anabaptist structures, and this new substance that Menno proclaimed during the middle decades of the sixteenth century? His answer invariably was: Yes, it is the ever new, and renewing, foundation of Jesus Christ and his New Creation (1 Corinthians 3:11): "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Mennonites in Canada

A Chronological Survey, 1786-1986

By Lorna L. Bergey

Migrations

Migrations of Mennonite families to Canada began in 1786 shortly after the close of the Revolutionary War in the United States. Several Mennonite settlers arriving at The Twenty (Vineland) in the Niagara Peninsula between 1786 and 1798 received generous land grants from the British government in response to their appeal as United Empire Loyalists. Between 1789 and 1799 a trickle of Mennonite immigrants settled on land purchased in Welland County along the Niagara River, and in Haldimand County along the shore of Lake Erie.

Following 1799 three main settlements were established in the Vineland area along Twenty Mile Creek, in the Waterloo area along the Grand River, and in the district of York near Toronto. Many descendants of these later arrivals have maintained that their forefathers' decision to move to Canada in search for more land, and continuous assurance of exemption from military service was also an expression of loyalty to the British crown.

Settlement of the Vineland Area (The Twenty)

Thirty families arriving from Bucks County, Pennsylvania, between 1799 and 1801 settled at The Twenty. In 1801, in consultation with the Franconia (Pa.) church leaders, they organized the first Mennonite (Moyer, now Vineland) congregation in Canada that had a resident minister and deacon. Valentine Kratz and John Fretz were chosen by lot.

Settlement in the Waterloo Area

Between 1800 and 1802, approximately 20 Mennonite and Tunker families from the Franconia and Lancaster districts migrated to the inland Beasley Tract along the Grand River. While they paid cash for large acreages, Beasley was unable to produce clear titles due to an existing mortgage on the tract. He proposed that if the Mennonites could raise funds to clear the mortgage he would release his claim to an additional 60,000-acre tract in their favor. As a result the German Land Company was formed by 26 Mennonites in the Lancaster district.

In 1806 an adjoining 45,000-acre tract north of the original purchase was acquired. The opportunity to extend mutual aid, provide farms for growing families in close community, and invest in a real-estate venture provided the incentive for many to come to Canada.

Worship services were held in homes. Minister Joseph Bechtel and deacon Jacob Bechtel were from Franconia. These homes formed the nucleus of what later became the Hagey congregation that today is the Preston church. The large migration from Lancaster formed a second congregation (Eby, now First Mennonite of Kitchener). It was the first church to build a meetinghouse, which was constructed in 1813. Benjamin Eby was ordained minister, and Jacob Schneider, deacon, in 1809.

Settlement of the York District

Migration to the York district began in 1803. Most of the land had been granted to Loyalist officers and soldiers who were not farmers. They were glad to sell. The Mennonite settlement was spread over several townships. Henry Wideman, a Franconia minister, was one of the early arrivals. Abraham Grove, ordained bishop in the Franconia conference, arrived in 1808.

Conference Beginnings

The ordination of Jacob Moyer as bishop in the Vineland area in 1807 strengthened the tie between all Mennonite settlements. An annual conference of all ministers has been held since 1810. Officially known as the Mennonite Conference of Canada until 1909, they perceived "the nurturing of the Mennonite faith in Canada" as their mandate.

Assistance was given to the following in the settlement of several large Mennonite migrations in Canada as follows: the Amish migration from Europe in the 1820s to the German Block, west of the Waterloo settlement; the migration of Mennonites from Russia during the 1870s to the East and West Reserves in the province of Manitoba; the migration of Mennonites from Ontario at the turn of the century to Saskatchewan and Alberta. They were encouraged "to locate together for church privileges." They aided the migration of Mennonite refugees of the Russian Revolution and famine during the 1920s. Mennonite groups in Canada provided the refugees with lodging, food, clothing, and employment during their first year in Canada.

The Tie That Binds

Each group came to Canada in search of freedom from religious and economic oppression. Each maintained its distinctive fellowship. There was little interaction until World War I united them in a common cause—the necessity of reestablishing their guarantee of military exemption. This was followed by a united decision to respond to the needs of war sufferers. World War II experiences strengthened the bond.

Tolerance and respect for people of various nationalities and religious creeds has been the norm among Mennonites. They have been known for their nonresistance, honest dealings, and helping those in need. Working together through Mennonite Disaster Service and Mennonite Central Committee Canada, all groups have gained the respect of the nation. The Federal Government in Ottawa on occasion contributes matching grants for MCC Canada projects. projects.

The bond between the various groups continues. The Mennonite Conference of Ontario and Quebec, Western Ontario Mennonite Conference, and the Conference of United Mennonite Churches in Ontario, representing all migrating groups, established the first Mennonite residential college on a secular university campus in the 1960s. Conrad Grebel College, where Peace and Conflict Studies were initiated, stands as a monument to that unity.

These three conferences will hold their first integrated conference in Waterloo, March 14-16, 1986—an historic event!

Geographical Directory of Congregations

This directory lists Mennonite Church congregations according to the country, state/province, and city in which they are located. Within each country (Canada, United States, and others), congregations are listed alphabetically by state/province and city. This directory includes all the Mennonite Church congregations which are listed in the "Conference, District, and Area Directory of Congregations" and the "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences." Most of these congregations are members of district conferences; however, some ("Unaffiliated Mennonite Congregations") are not related to any district or conference. Most participate and send delegates to the General Assembly; however, some choose not to participate in the programs of the General Assembly. (See the codes listed below.)

In addition, the directory includes all congregations listed in the "Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies." These include Beachy Amish (BA) and Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church (EP). Also included are all congregations affiliated with the Brethren in Christ (BIC), General Conference Mennonite (GC), Mennonite Brethren (MB), Evangelical Mennonite Brethren (EMB), Evangelical Mennonite Church (EMC), Evangelical Mennonite Conference of Canada (EMCC), and the Evangelical Mennonite Mission Conference of Canada (EMMC) churches. These congregations are integrated with the Mennonite Church congregations. Information listed about these congregations includes location, name, and affiliation.

The purpose of this directory is to provide information regarding the location of the meetinghouse. It is designed to assist readers in their efforts to find or contact the congregation at its meetinghouse. Note that the location of the meetinghouse is not a mailing address. All mail should be sent to the address listed under the congregation in the "Conference, District and Area Directory of Congregations," "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences," or "Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies." Persons desiring to get in touch with the pastor or contact person of a congregation should follow the information provided in these same directories. Also included in these directories is information regarding conference organizations, bishops/overseers, and congregations.

Effort was made to secure complete and accurate information about each congregation listed. If there are errors and/or missing data, please provide full information to the Editor, Mennonite Yearbook, 616 Walnut Ave., Scottdale, PA 15683-1999. Conference, District, and Area Directory of Congregations

Related to Mennonite Church General Assembly

This directory lists Mennonite Church conferences alphabetically by name of conference, area, or district. Within each one, congregations are listed alphabetically by name. Conferences listed in this directory participate in the program of the Mennonite Church General Assembly. Conferences who do not participate are included in the "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences.".

The purpose of this directory is to provide all the information necessary to contact a given congregation by mail or phone without consulting other sections of the Yearbook. The mailing address and telephone number listed is the one designated by the congregation as their official contact. This may be the pastor's office, residence, meetinghouse, or another location or person. Information regarding the meetinghouse (location, telephone, etc.) is provided in the "Geographical Directory of Congregations" section. (See the first page of the "Geographical Directory" for an explanation of the conference codes used.)

Listed with the congregation is the person designated as the primary contact who carries the ministerial function code (1) and those who carry active responsibility (2). Others included only in the "Ministerial Directory" are retired (3), without congregational responsibility (4), carrying district, conference, or churchwide responsibilities (5), chaplains (6), active missionary (7), staff member of a church-sponsored or related board, agency, or program (8).

Church Communities

Church communities is a broad designation for active Anabaptist-Mennonite Church-communities who relate to the Mennonite Church. This list was compiled in consultation with Keith Harder, 207 East C, Hillsboro, KS 67063. Communities listed relate in a variety of ways to the Mennonite Church, as well as other churches and movements. Most communities follow a multiple-shared pattern of leadership.

included an appeal for editorial and distribution suggestions as well as contributions to help cover editorial costs. We are very grateful to the 192 who responded with their ideas on editorial and marketing options, the 129 who placed an order for the new volume, and the 68 who gave a total of $1,212. Your support and counsel was very helpful to us.

To ease the financial pressure we considered charging each institution and board for the space needed to be listed in the Yearbook. The overriding negative feature of this option is that it would result in some institutions not being listed at all. Therefore we would end up publishing an incomplete record of Mennonite Church life. That was too high a price to pay for the quality of listings users expect to find in the Yearbook. Before the survey we had concluded that a substantial increase in the retail price to cover all costs, while justified, would only decrease circulation. Thus, in light of all the above factors we decided, with counsel from the Mennonite Church Coordinating Council, that the biennial solution was the best way to go.

A statistical review of our life together indicates that membership in our North American based conference now stands at 100,567 in 1,074 congregations (9,400 members and 85 congregations in Canada; 91,167 in 989 congregations in the United States) (Table IV). Add to this the 39,743 members in overseas churches and programs. Our Mennonite Church family now numbers 140,310 (Table II). Of note is the 4,478 people who provide leadership for our 1,785 congregations. These totals should be seen in the context of a North American Mennonite membership of 324,064 in 3,247 congregations (Table VI) and 730,000 members in 144 bodies from 57 countries worldwide (Tables VII and VIII).

Totals for the other Mennonite Church conferences are 12,890 members in 259 congregations. Other Mennonite bodies—the Beachy Amish have 6,530 in 101 congregations, and the Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church numbers 2,746 in 54 congregations (Table IV).

The Mennonite Yearbook is a tool to facilitate the life of the Mennonite Church (MC). The production of this volume is the result of the close and intense cooperative efforts of the editorial and production staff of the Mennonite Yearbook, with congregations, conferences, boards, and numerous activities, projects, institutions, and agencies who provided up-to-date information and organized it in a clear way so that it benefits the whole body. To each one who assisted in this significant work, we are very grateful.

The 1986-87 Yearbook is now in your hands. Use it fully. Let us know how it feels and works. We welcome your suggestions and feedback. Our aim is to provide you with a highly useful tool so that you can participate fully in the common life, heritage, and faith of the Mennonite Church and in the larger Mennonite family of church bodies in North America and around the world.—James E. Horsch

Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences

Not Related to Mennonite Church General Assembly

This directory lists Mennonite Church conferences alphabetically by name of conference, area, or district. Within each one, congregations are listed alphabetically by name. Conferences and districts in this directory do not participate in nor send delegates to the Mennonite Church General Assembly.

The purpose of this directory is to provide all the information necessary to contact a given congregation by mail or phone without consulting other sections of the Yearbook. The mailing address and telephone number listed is the one designated by the congregation as their official contact. This may be the pastor's office, residence, meetinghouse, or another location or person. Information regarding the meetinghouse (location, telephone, etc.) is provided in the "Geographical Directory of Congregations" section. (See the first page of "Geographical Directory" for an explanation of the conference codes used.)

Listed with the congregation is the person designated as the primary contact who carries the ministerial function code (1) and those who carry active responsibility (2). Others included only in the "Ministerial Directory" are retired (3), without congregational responsibility (4), those who carry responsibilities beyond the congregations (5), chaplains (6), active missionary (7), staff members of a church-sponsored or related board, agency, or program (8).

An example of a complete congregational listing in this directory is as follows:

Directory of Mennonite Church Organizations and Related Ministries

The ministry and mission of the Mennonite Church is carried out through boards listed below. These are supported by contributions from the membership, with exception that the program of the Mennonite Mutual Aid Board is supported by enrollment in their services and the program of the Mennonite Publication Board is supported by purchases of books, curriculum materials, and periodicals.

The 1986 combined budget of the churchwide agencies is $10,858,500. The average per member contribution needed by each of the agencies is as follows: Mennonite Board of Congregational Ministries, $8.40; Mennonite Board of Education, $2.65; Mennonite Board of Missions, $83.50; seminaries $11.55; colleges $27.80; Mennonite Church General Board, $4.70; minority education, $5.50. This brings the total per member average giving goal to $144.10.

Inter-Mennonite agencies approved for churchwide support include Mennonite Central Committee, up to $13.95 per member (to be adjusted by each congregation in proportion to the amounts contributed and sent directly to MCC by individuals) and Mennonite World Conference, $1.00 per member.

Founded 1984. The Fellowship is a coalition of like-minded Mennonites whose concerns focus upon the basic biblical tenets of faith which have been the foundations of the sector of the Reformation of the sixteenth century known as the Anbaptist Movement, with special interest in that segment of Anabaptistm called Mennonite. The Fellowship was formed because certain of those basic biblical tenets of faith long held as foundational more currently are being questioned, modified, or negated, and, because by general acknowledgment, the Mennonite Church membership contains a wide range of conservative elements on the one hand and liberal elements on the other, with the latter seemingly gaining the ascendency, and, because at issue is the control of thought through the schools and through the publication of literature, and, because in the present confusion of ideas there is need for a fundamental, distinctive, proportional, and consistent articulation of faith.

Directory of Overseas Mennonite Churches and Programs

The following list includes various Mennonite Church relationships overseas through Mennonite Board of Missions, Mennonite Central Committee, and the following district conferences: Conservative, Franconia, Lancaster, Pacific Coast, and Virginia (see listing of conference mission boards under "Mennonite Board of Missions" for individual board addresses). Information includes efforts that are formally organized as well as programs which have not yet resulted in the formation of a conference or church body. Reference to the organized church bodies is also made in the "Mennonite and Brethren in Christ World Directory." Names in parentheses are children of the workers. The year in parentheses after a worker's name indicates the year assignment began. The address of church officers is the same as the church office unless included. The address of the worker is the same as the address of the agency contact person or the mission office unless included. Workers are listed to encourage personal contact between the reader and the ones involved in mission and service activities. Since postal rates change frequently, contact your local post office for current rates.

Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies

This directory lists Other Mennonite Bodies alphabetically by name of body. Within each one, congregations are listed alphabetically by name of congregation. These bodies listed relate informally to the Mennonite Church on a fraternal basis. Included are the Beachy Amish Church (BA) and the Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church (EP).

The purpose of this directory is to provide all the information necessary to contact a given congregation by mail or phone without consulting other sections of the Yearbook. The mailing address and telephone number listed is the one delesignated by the congregation as their official contact. This may be the pastor's office, residence, meetinghouse, or another location or person. Information regarding the meetinghouse (location, telephone, etc.) is provided in the "Geographical Directory of Congregations" section. (See the first page of the "Geographical Directory" for an explanation of the conference codes used.)

Listed with the congregation is the person designated as the primary contact who carries the ministerial function code (1) and those who carry active responsibility(2). Others included only in the "Ministerial Directory" are retired (3), without congregational responsibility (4), those who carry responsibilities beyond the congregation (5), chaplains (6), active missionary (7), staff members of a church-sponsored or related board, agency, or program (8). The "Ministerial Directory" is found with each body, after the organizational and congregational entries. For full explanation of each detail see the beginning of the "Mennonite Church Ministerial Directory."

Notes:

In addition to the Mennonite Church students of Table XIX, the data in this table includes all other students. The first column for each school lists full-time students, and in the second column part-time students are added.

Some of the schools, especially the seminaries, have a significant ministry to students not taking course work for credit. These audit and extension students are not included in the numbers reported here.

Mennonite Church Ministerial Directory

This directory lists all ordained persons who are members of the Mennonite Church in North America. It includes ministers of Mennonite Church conferences who do and do not participate in the program of Mennonite Church General Assembly. (These are from congregations listed in "Conference, District, and Area Directory of Congregations" and "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences." The "Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies" includes a separate listing of ministers for each group.) The information provided for each person is as follows: name; name of spouse; address; telephone; office and function; date of birth; date of ordination as deacon, minister, and bishop; congregational name and number (if person carries function No. 1); conference affiliation. See example below. Where information is not available or not applicable, it is omitted. Codes used in this listing are noted below.

Every effort has been made to secure complete and accurate information for each name. However, the situation of a person may change or the information was not available at the time when it was gathered. If there are errors and/or there is information missing, please send the correct and/or full information to: Editor, Mennonite Yearbook, 616 Walnut Ave., Scottdale, PA 15683-1999. Your help will make the Mennonite Yearbook a more useful and reliable tool for each member of the church in North America and around the world.

Notes:

[1]Names and addresses of overseas Mennonite ministers are not included in directory.

[2]The ministerial listings of the Beachy Amish Church and Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church are found in "Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies."
